MORGHEN JAEI

Morghen Jael is a grade 11 student attending Westdale Secondary School. She is part of both the International Baccalaureate Program and the French Immersion Program, and loves the intellectual challenge! Morghen is a leader among her peers, and always strives to take an active role in school life. She is currently the student editor and coordinator of Westdale's school newspaper, The Sequitur, which publishes monthly and includes a wide variety of student writing and art. Morghen frequently attends meetings of Westdale's student council, Triune, and takes part in extra-curriculars of all kinds. She is a member of the school's orienteering and cross country teams, and is proud to be the captain of her competitive soccer team outside of school. Morghen has an extensive history of community volunteer work in downtown Hamilton, where she lives, and many years of self-employment through a tutoring business. She considers herself an avid learner, with particular interest areas in politics, psychology, law, and the education system and learning process. Morghen hopes to lead by example and inspire others to love and appreciate the world of information at their fingertips.
