Today is World Water Day!

Imagine what your life would be like without water.

We enjoy clean water right from the taps in our homes and at school every day. This is not true for everyone around the world.

Come for a Learning Walk at the Library Learning Commons to learn more about the importance of water and explore what life is like for the millions of people without access to clean water.

Learn ways you can conserve water and how you can be a part of the solution.

Teachers can sign up at the circulation desk to bring classes this week and next.

Thank you to the staff who have begun the conversations with classes about routines/protocols that have been in place that have helped to make everyone feel safe and included. Staff will be sharing your feedback and discussing their observations this week. We also are looking for input from parents and caregivers on any of the routines they have found to be beneficial. Please talk with your parents and caregivers and share with educators. We plan to make these decisions together.
