What do you value as a learner?

What is important for our students?

ii) In January – we discussed that we will need to find ways to measure what is important for our students. To that end, in February we will continue to have Board staff attend our staff meetings to support our learning – specifically to help us find ways to measure these attributes. We will also need to measure our students' skills in literacy and numeracy as well as in rotary subjects to help us focus on our learning. We are establishing a connection between the needs of our students and our learning as educators. Staff were asked to consider one aspect of literacy and numeracy that they viewed as a strength and another aspect that we might address as an area of improvement. Please see chart below. Staff also received information about the HUB.
